Panzer

OC OC

War is almost constant in the galaxy but pirates are just as big a threat, and in a galaxy as big as this pirates can easily become as powerful as the entire emperor's military forces. And with Terrans military history there are entire sections of their space that are barren and perfect places for these pirates to stage assaults or just hide.

Of course Terra doesn't like having their territory used for piracy no matter how empty that space actually is. So my band of merry men was hired to aid in the destruction of a particularly large piracy operation that had just now started to cause trouble for the empires trade routes. But the only terrans to join us would be what they called panzer devisions. Only two of them compared to our twenty four armoured plasma tossers

Honestly when the terrans arrived in their transport ships we kind of expected a normal looking tank. Rounded hull with a large plasma cannon on top. But no. They had huge iron boxes with large hollow rods coming out a rotating turret fitted on a system of continuous belts. We kind of expected them to struggle or just sit as show pisces.

The hour came and we had chosen to attack the pirates fortification. So we did with the terrans leading. Our weapons normally had a range of a few hundred metres having massive arcs, but the terrans stopped miles away almost and started to fire. I was about to yell at them for using their weapons stupidly, but to my suprise explosions could be heard in the distance. when we finnaly reached the pirates fortified base they were gone. a group of terrans their rounding up who survived.

Weeks later I decided to do research into these Terrans. The tanks they used wear their main front line systems called tigers, and what scared me most is unlike most of the universe's armoured weapons they are not just bombardment tools. Terrans build these tanks to concoure enemy lines.

That's exactly what they did: they destroyed every piece of weaponry the pirates have and without our knowledge sent in an entire battalion of human soldiers destroying the pirates without getting any of us in harm's way.

We were just hired as a decoy so the pirates would expect a full frontal assault instead of what actually happened.

I swear these Terrans are so annoying..never doing anything as expected or in a way other nations would.

Fuck Terrans.
